Local nonprofit moving onto city land at 6400 Arapahoe Road

ReSource, a used building materials donation and sales yard operated by the Center for ReSource Conservation (CRC), is relocating to the recently purchased city property at 6400 Arapahoe Road beginning the weekend of Nov. 7.

The city planned annexation should be complete in the second quarter of 2010. However, under county zoning, ReSource is allowed to relocate and operate on the site as a continuation of the existing use. ReSource will be open for business at their current site, 2665 63rd St., until early December.

The City of Boulder purchased the 10-acre site on Aug. 25, 2009 for waste reduction infrastructure that will support the city's becoming a zero waste community.

For more information about ReSource's move or the city process to annex the property, please contact Elizabeth Vasatka at 303-441-1964 or vasatkae@bouldercolorado.gov.
